

GIT_Chrohns_1.txt

The terminal ileum is abnormal with a long segment of ileum being narrowed and irregular in keeping with mucosal ulceration.

It is difficult to estimate the length of this abnormality, but it is approximately 10.0cm. The more proximal small bowel appears normal.

The appearance would be in keeping with terminal ileal Crohn's disease.